

State Senator Bruce Tarr is the Massachusetts Senate Minority Leader, who proudly represents The First Essex and Middlesex District, consisting of his hometown City of Gloucester and the towns of Boxford, Essex, Georgetown, Groveland, Hamilton, Ipswich, Manchester, Middleton, Newbury, North Andover (Precincts 5, 6, 7 and 8), North Reading, Rockport, Rowley, Wenham, West Newbury, and Wilmington.

A member of the Massachusetts State Senate since 1994, Senator Tarr was instrumental in passing landmark legislation such as Melanie's law – which established tough criminal penalties on repeat drunk driving offenders. He has championed issues ranging from the promotion of renewable energy development to laws protecting animals against cruelty. A native of Gloucester, Senator Tarr remains an unyielding advocate of the Commonwealth's fishing industry. With that, he has worked tirelessly to ensure fair regulations governing the fishing fleet.

Senator Tarr continues to make fiscal responsibility, ensuring affordable access to good-quality healthcare, and making our Commonwealth a safe and more prosperous place to live, work, and raise a family his top priorities.
